« Of the crus bourgeois, one of my favourites is Cissac, known at one time as a « Grand Cru Bourgeois Exceptionnel ». My first taste was the 1953, which had just been imported in cask by a neighbouring doctor in Cheshire and efficiently bottled in his cellar. The wine was youthful, but really very good . I later got to know the proprietor Louis Vialard well, and six years ago, at a Cissac dinner in his honour, drank his 1982 and 1985, in imperials. Both were outstanding, but the latter – another of my favourite vintages – sweet, soft and delicious. » Michael Broadbent
